Hmmm...AOL suing Microsoft? Why doesn't someone take a strong hard look at AOL? With the way AOL is buying corporations up Cable networks broadcast networks software companies (Netscape and attempting to buy Red Hat) plus if I'm not mistaken and newspaper. Shouldn't AOL be under a microscope? It is becoming readily apparent that these past few years have been a Microsoft Witch Hunt nothing more nothing less. Toss this whole case out and let's get back to running the country rather than ruining the country through the desimation of the software sector.
